Jason Damiani
☎ +1 (386) 793 6916
✉ me@jasondamiani.com
🖥 www.jasondamiani.com

NASCAR   February 16, 2015

To Whom it May Concern,

I am a lifelong racing fan seeking a position in the fields of data science or analytics.

I believe that my academic background coupled with a diverse work history provide me with a robust offering of skills and experiences for roles in these fields.

I graduated with a Bachelors of Science in Industrial and Systems Engineering. This area of study provided a wide range of technical and analytical skills including statistics, mathematical modeling, optimization, numerical methods, object oriented programming, and data analysis (SQL and R).

In just three years I have already attained a broad set of work experience with roles including software development, numerical optimization, technical sales, and risk analytics.

I have demonstrated experience using large data sets and analytical skill to deliver impactful solutions.

I invite you to view my portfolio of personal project work on `http://www.jasondamiani.com`.

I look forward to bringing these skills to an energized, achievement driven team.

Sincerely,

Jason Damiani